JUNIOR CLASS POEM

It was early in the morning and the sun was up bright,
Gerber just got up and he sure looked a sight.

Evelyn had planned for everyone to be there at nine,
But it seemed impossible for Annie to be on time.

Then Irene mentioned that it was getting late,
And Lorene said, "We sure can't miss this date."

Then all at once Marlene began to laugh and Alton began to blush,
For he had lost his suspenders somewhere in the rush.

At last Bob came in and yelled for all to get aboard,
But Willie got excited and fell over a light cord.

Poor Norman had planned on going to the fair,
But in his new suit there was a little tear.

So Kiess ran in the house to get the safety pins,
Then we almost forgot to get the Schroeder twins.

Then we thought we had every one as we went down the hill,
But when we got to the bottom there stood Bill.

It didn't take Ferd long to get us to the fair,
But it seemed like that old bus was flying through the air.

No one would volunteer to go and take the lead,
But Charlie wanting to be brave, finally agreed.

Though some went on the ferris wheel and some another ride,
To ride the little airplanes was Kenny's joy and pride.

Then we went through a door and down a little hall,
There we saw Max Andrews known as "Eightball."

Mildred said it was twelve o'clock and time to go and eat,
So we ate at Maxine's place where the cooking is hard to beat.

Next we went to the park to see the lover's booth,
When we opened the door there we saw Ruth.

All at once there was excitement and every kind of sound,
Then we saw Barbara riding on the merry-go-round.

To see the bathing beauties was the boys only desire,
Who should we find there but Joan Bultemeier.

Later we went to hear a famous fellow sing,
When we got there we heard Floyd Elherding.

The sun was going down and what a beautiful setting,
As we walked past the dance floor we saw Dorothy Oetting.

We walked around all day and then went to a show,
There we saw Joan Fuelling and her handsome beau.

We had a lot of fun and it was quite a day,
On the way home Jim mentioned that we forgot La Rae.

The day was coming to an end and our house was now in sight,
But you should have been a little mouse when Roland kissed his girl good-night.

Mush, mush, mush, that is the way it goes,
If you don't believe me, just ask Dorothy Crosby, she knows!

CLASS PROPHECY

In the summer of 1960, I, Jane Drew, being granted a month's vacation, climbed in my flying machine and took off for Colorado to visit an old classmate, Beverly and her husband, Kenny at the Flying W. Ranch. Kenny was away on a business trip, and Beverly, feeling herself in need of a vacation, left her three children with a tutor in a neighboring school and came with me to look up our old pal, Carol Kirsch. From the last letter we knew Carol could be found in Cheyenne, Wyoming, where she was now a prominent baby doctor.

We arrived just as she was leaving for lunch so we accompanied her. While talking to Carol she told us she had recently seen Waneta, while on a business trip to California. We secured from her Waneta's address, and journeyed on to that point. We found that Waneta had changed her name to Juanita Swanson, well-known actress and singer. She told us she was getting along very well and was now engaged to a movie producer. After talking with Juanita, she informed us that Kate was living in Dallas, Texas, so we took off for Dallas. We found Kate and her two children busily cleaning their house. We stayed for two days and met her husband who told us that he had important business with Marion Sheets.

We went to see Marion in his Bachelor apartment in Los Angeles where he was a business manufacturer. He had not yet married but was very happy. He couldn't tell us the whereabouts of any of our classmates so we journeyed back to good old Indiana to see if we could find anyone.

First, we saw Ray and Lois on their two-hundred acre farm near Decatur. We met their sweet little daughter who was now four years old. They invited us to stay for the week-end so we gladly accepted. On Sunday afternoon, Fred and his lovely wife came over to dinner. They brought along their two children. Fred said he had been working hard on his large farm. Both Ray and Fred were important men in their community, as anyone would guess they might be. Saying good-bye to them early Sunday evening, we proceeded to go see Bob and Dorothy DeLong in Monmouth where they lived with their three children. Of course they were happy as larks. Bob now owned an electrical shop in Decatur. Dorothy told us that Marcella was married to a man named Bleeke, who was very wealthy, but they were on a trip to Cuba, so we were unable to see them. She also said that Arlene had run off with a traveling salesman, a fuller-brush man, to be exact, and no one knew where they were now living, but we knew that Arlene had found happiness.

Next we went to the farm of Carol and Melvyn Frusch near Hoagland. Carol was washing and her three children were playing in the yard. We chatted a while but she was very busy so we went on to see Frances who was married and living with her folks. They were just eating lunch so we stopped and met her husband and her four children. We visited the afternoon and watched Frances sew school clothes for her children.

Then we went to Fort Wayne to see Phyllis, who was working for a prominent lawyer. Phyllis is now engaged and seems to be very happy. She looked the same as ever and still had her red hair and freckles. She talked of her future plans and soon our conversation drifted once more to our classmates. Much to our surprise she told us of Margaret who was teaching school at Purdue extension so we went to see her. We caught her in-between classes and she told us she had not married, but was very much satisfied at her work. Bernie, she said, was working in a private office in Muncie. She was not married, but was engaged to her boss. She invited us to accompany her to dinner and a movie which we accepted with pleasure. It was so late when we returned that we were obliged to stay all night.

Leaving her friendly hospitality, the next morning, we took off for Indianapolis to see Rosella and Albert Selking. Albert now owned a string of hotels and they lived in a swanky apartment with their two children. Rosie said she just got a letter from Lucille who was living in St. Louis where she and her doctor husband were both working in the hospital. Lucille was in the height of her ambition as superintendent of nurses. She was now very comfortably settled after working her way up to her profession. We left Lucille to go to New York. There we were browsing around in an art gallery when we saw a beautiful painting signed by Glenda McClure. We looked her up and found she had graduated from art school and was now a top-flight artist. She had realized her ambition of being wealthy. We would have stayed but our vacation was nearing an end and we had yet to see Betty Hockemeyer. She was a famous model for Robert Powers and she was married to a business manager. Betty was as slim and charming as ever. We stayed for a short while but we had to be on our way, so I took Bev to Denver and went on home.

This had been an interesting experience and I was glad to see all my old classmates well and happy.

SOPHOMORE CLASS SONG

Whether the odds be great or small,
 We Sophomores will win over all
 While our royal sons go marching
 Onward to victory. Rah! Rah!
 Cheer, cheer, the Sophomore gang
 Wake up the echos, cheering her name,
 Send a volley of shots on high,
 Shake down the thunder from the sky,

ACTIVITIES

SOPHOMORES ACTIVITIES

We chose Mrs. Dewey as our sponsor. The officers that were elected to serve for the year are: Eddie Stoppenhagen, President; Carl Thieme, Vice President; Barbara Shoaf, Treasurer, and Bernita Thieme, Secretary.

On October 15 we had an enjoyable time on the hayride sponsored by the class. After the hayride we met at Monmouth for enjoyable games and delicious food.

December 16 was the first time we Sophomore girls slipped on our class sweaters which we now wear with pride and dignity.

This year it was our turn to sell food to the people who met on the annual Farmers Institute.

Red and white were chosen as our class colors, and we are also happy to ring out our class song, "Cheer, Cheer, Our Sophomore Gang."

FRESHMEN CLASS POEM

Oh! little Russel with hair so red,
'Tis said someday you'll knock 'em dead.

Jim is so slim, he's quick as a cat,
He makes Frank Sinatra really look fat.

Marilyn Kiefer and Janie Clark,
With their spots, you can see 'em in the dark.

'Tis love that makes the world go round,
Bernice should be quite dizzy,
A certain ape-man that I know
Drives a beat-up lizzy.

The dynamite blonde of the Freshman class
Is Hattie Fuelling, all others she'll pass.

Little David killed the giant in the days of old,
Our David is too bashful, but his heart is made of gold.

Alone on an island I'd like to be
If Marilyn Grottrian were there with me.

I'd go with "Howey" gladly to any kind of dungeon,
For jammed in all his pockets would be something good to munch on.

Loretta, my dear, please take my advice,
If you sock all the boys, they won't think you're nice.

Reuben sweet, Reuben fair,
Will you please go comb your hair?

Jack loves cake and candy chewy,
Ice-cream cones and Mrs. Dewey.

Lawrence's boxing is a sight,
Leave me out; let you and him fight.

There was a boy; his name Le Roy
The class all called him "Nature Boy."

I dream of Jeanie with the light brown hair,
With eyes so blue and face so fair.

Roses are red, violets are blue;
Alice is sweet, and pretty, too.

With his beautiful hair, Leo really does rate,
If he'd just get rid of that surplus weight.

Kenney Busick looked awful cute,
In his two-piece bathing suit.

Poor Bob Miller isn't able,
To cut in on Marilyn Bohnke and Larwell Cable.

Evelyn's grades can't be improved,
I tried to copy but she moved.

With Donald Gallmeyer I'd love to neck,
Because he looks like Gregory Peck.

Kenny Schaeuler got his physique
By using Miss Morehouse's technique.

Charlie is a teen-age guy,
With curly hair and a roving eye.

If you see Robert, you'd know that guy,
He's very tall and very shy.

Daisy sure can cut a rug,
You ought to see her jitterbug.

Virgena and Frankie are in love, as you can see,
They're both as bashful as can be.

Bonnie Deam is all a bluff,
Making you think she wrote this stuff.
